I got a email telling me to complete the survey. They link is just the generic login to the vmworld website. Where do I go from there?

I completed that survey while still in San Francisco at VMworld - if I'm remembering correctly, I logged into the registration pages for VMworld and the link appeared to me after I was in. I'll see if I can verify that.

EDIT: Pretty sure this was where I was able to complete the survey at:

I can't find it either. Surely they haven't ended it already have they? I'm just now caught up enough from being gone for a week that I have time to put some thought into it! I get a message that says "The specified community does not exist" when I try to go to it. Before I logged into the web site I got the same thing that Keith got.

Well, I found it but now it is gone. You had to go to your registration info and at the top of that page there was a link. Funny think they limited the comment field to 500 letters.
